DIRECTOR’S REPORT:
Library Director, Carolyn Karwoski reported the following:

Mount Vernon Public Library
Director’s Report
January 20, 2016

During December several staff trainings were scheduled including a SIRSI training held by the WLS Trainer for the circulation and reference staff. All staff members were invited to attend an ALA sponsored Webinar, “How to Respond to a Security Incident at your Library.” This event was well-attended and prompted much interest and feedback from staff. Staff were also trained on our new legal database, WestlawNext. We will be continuing to develop new training opportunities for staff so that skills can be improved and better customer service can be provided to all our users.
The Collection Development Committee finished their draft of the Collection Development Policy, for review by the Policy & Governance Committee and the Library Board of Trustees. It is on the agenda for a vote tonight.

Holiday events – including the Annual Christmas Tree Lighting, Hanukkah Cooking Demonstration and Celebration, and Kwanzaa Celebration – were the highlights of the month. Additionally, our Maker Space Pillowcase Project, led by Maxine Grandison, displayed forty-two beautifully decorated pillowcases that were donated to the Maria Fareri Children’s Hospital in Valhalla, New York.

The library launched its newly designed website on December 21, 2015. The site has been well-received. There are new pages for Children and Teens. In the near future, Patrons will be able to reserve museum passes and sign up for library programs through the new site.

Librarians have been tasked with creating resource guides that reflect the available materials and databases from our collections. These resource guides not only will be available in the library but also used when we participate in events throughout the community. Currently being printed is the Notable Mount Vernon People, health resources, job information and legal assistance. We will continue to add topics to the guides and believe that our users will benefit from the guides. We are also updating the Welcome Brochure as well as the children’s library resource guide.

All department heads have been tasked with writing and updating all department procedures for review. This will help staff in better serving the public. We expect that this will be finished in early February and will be reviewed at management meeting.
The homework help program in the Children’s Library has been extremely popular. That has resumed again this month with support from the Friend’s. They will be providing snacks for the students. This is a joint project with WLS, who has been providing interns to help the children. The snack and chat book club had an end of year pizza party in December. The Friend’s also provided the pizza and refreshments for the participants. We are also offering a new graphic novel book club and continue to have films on the 2nd Saturday of the month. The films have attracted a steady audience and there were 23 in attendance to watch, “Minions” in December.

Doug Emilio from Architectural Preservation has been at the library to work on the drawing for the children’s bathroom project as well as the new community room doors. Elaine and I meet with him the morning that he began the work to discuss options for what would fit into the budget of the grant. He has created a drawing for the washroom that has been presented to the Building and Grounds committee for review. Once it is reviewed, engineering will come into the library to continue to develop the plans.

The library received $7600 from WLS as part of the new pilot finance model for the net borrowers/net lenders program. This money is to develop our collection and can be used for print, audio as well as DVD titles for the collection. We received this collection money because our library is considered a net lender. The previous model, allowed for fees to be paid to the library from the net borrowers libraries. Now the net borrowers will be using the fees they used to pay to WLS to develop their popular collections. The idea that owning more of the in demand titles in their system will put less stress on the net lenders collections. It also allows for collection development funds from WLS to the net lender libraries. All items purchased for the library from this fund of money will be paid by WLS. All invoices will be sent to WLS for payment.

The Friend’s of the Library have received a donation of $200 to be used for a program in the Children’s Library. They have contacted Denise to work on a program for the spring months. They are also sponsoring a Black History Month program, Folk First: Black roots music will take place on the first Saturday of February.

The new garage door will be installed on Friday morning.

This month I also attended the ALA Midwinter conference in Boston, MA. I was able to attend sessions, hear from different speakers as well as spend time on the floor of exhibits to meet with various vendors. There were also some excellent author programs and many opportunities to network with other library directors and professionals. Some highlights of the conference were:

- Genealogy workshop provided by the New England Historic Genealogy Society
- Opening author event that featured Ken Burns
- Publisher’s presentation of new spring and summer titles at the Boston Public Library

Measuring the Future: understanding your spaces that can make your library better for everyone. Using Google analytics style dashboard, the use of libraries physical space can be defined without the loss of privacy. Data from this project can be viewed at http://measurethefuture.net
• Sustainability presented by Rebekkah Smith Aldrich, Director of Sustainability from the Mid-Hudson Library System in NY. She talked about how libraries must take an active, visible role in building sustainable, resilient and regenerative communities.
• Urban libraries who adopted and adapted the “turning outward” approach advocated by the Harwood Institute for Public Innovation.
• Auditorium series speaker featuring Senator Cory Booker from New Jersey
• On the exhibit floor met with self-check vendors, looked at microfilm-scanner machines that would enable our users to email or download information from microfilm or microfiche, spoke with vendor about scanning our city directories as well as our school year books
• Media awards were announced including the Newberry, the Caldecott and the Andrew Carnegie award books
• Library Transform update: ALA’s President, Sara Feldman’s initiative to focus on the importance of what libraries around the country do to serve their patrons. Will be displaying some of the poster’s within the library
