DIRECTOR’S REPORT:

Mount Vernon Public Library
Director’s Report
Nov. 18, 2015

On Oct. 21-24, Elaine and I attended the NYLA conference in Lake Placid, NY. The theme of the conference was Explore, Learn, Grow and the meeting also celebrated the 125th anniversary of its founding by Melville Dewey. Dewey, a library innovator of the last century, founded not only NYLA but also the American Library Association and was one of the first advocates for libraries in the profession. Over 900 librarians and support staff members attended the conference. There were 3 packed days of events and sessions held at the Lake Placid Conference and Olympic Center. In fact the exhibit floor was over the skating rink, where Sonia Henie won her gold medal in 1932.

I attended a preconference workshop as part of the Leadership and Management section of NYLA. The topic was Human Resources in libraries. The morning session was presented by an Employment and Labor attorney. Topics discussed were harassment, discrimination and NY State human rights laws. Also included on the agenda were civil rights laws, ADA as well as hostile work environments. Recommended action items were to focus on creating policies that covers harassment and discrimination with clear rules for staff to follow and to promote a workplace free of prohibited behavior. Included in these suggested policies is a clear procedure for staff to follow if they feel they are victims of harassment or discrimination. These policies should also include what constitutes and expressly prohibits retaliation. Policies should cover fraternization, appropriate and inappropriate use of the internet and email and include how long emails should be retained as well as other kinds of files and records. This was a very informative presentation with plan suggestions to move forward to introduce these measures into organizations.

The afternoon session was a presentation on practical human resource procedures developed for libraries. The presenters were three library directors and this was done in an open forum discussion on HR practices in libraries. The last presentation of the day was a discussion of civil service practice in NY State. This presentation was done by outgoing NYLA president, Geoff Fitzpatrick, Director of the Bethlehem Public Library, who is very knowledgeable about civil service practice. It was a very good session and Geoff is a clear speaker and good presenter.

The keynote lecture was delivered by Syracuse University professor and Dean’s Scholar for the New Librarianship, School of Information Studies and Director of the Information Institute, R. David Lankes. Entitled “46,625”, which was the number of days that came before the day of the lecture, that Melville Dewey, saw the future of libraries in standardization, efficiency and industrialization. Dewey’s view was that the future of libraries was in shared structures, shared methods and librarians devoted to the maintenance of institutional libraries. On day 45, 626, that viewpoint is a formula for disaster. On day 45, 626, the future of libraries is in librarians building libraries around the unique communities they serve. The success of the next 125 years is tied to the counties, cities, towns and villages in New York State. Our next 125 years is in the dreams and aspirations of New York’s citizens, students, scholars and not in our stacks. We must all demand and expect better libraries for today’s complex world, a theme in his new book, Expect More: Demanding better libraries for today’s complex world. Professor Lanke’s compelling and aspirational lecture challenged all of us to become the standard bearer in creating this new vision in librarianship.

Other sessions that I attended included: Libraries helping communities in crisis, the Malcolm Hill Lecture: Crafting the Customer Experience for People Not Like You: How to Delight & Engage Your Library, Creating a Thriving 21st Century Library, author presentation by Don Papson who is the founder and past president of the North Country Underground Railroad Historical Association and the curator of exhibits for the North Star Underground Railroad Museum at Ausable Chasm. The association and the museum preserve and interpret the history of the Champlain Line of the Underground Railroad. Don is co-author with Tom Calarco of Secret Lives of the Underground Railroad in New York, Sydney Howard Gay, and the Record of Fugitives (2015). Elaine and I spoke with Mr. Papson about doing a program about the Underground Railroad in New York here at the library in the spring.

Successful libraries make it a point for staff to participate in professional conferences. These conferences enable attendees to network, meet library professionals from around the state, attend sessions with experts, speak with vendors and develop skills through informative sessions as well as in open dialogues.
with other professionals in the field. Attending NYLA was not only an opportunity to grow skills, but also an opportunity to explore theory and develop critical thinking fundamentals that are the backbone of the profession. I always come away from these conferences with a sense of accomplishment and a way forward to put some of these lessons into action plans back at the library. The connections fostered at a conference give me contacts to consult and other public libraries to emulate and be challenged to go forward with new initiatives here at the library. It was also good to see other participants from around the county as well as from many corners of the state. The conference this year as in years past was well worth the long drive to participate. I hope next year that some of the Trustees will also attend as it will be in Saratoga Springs, a much closer location.
